

391 EDITORS OF 526 FOR SUFFS IN POLL

1,000 Asked to Give Opinions in All Parts of the Country.

MANY ARE UNDECIDED

The Literary Digest has taken a poll of the press of the United States on the question of woman suffrage and the results show that "the ayes have it." Letters were sent to 1,000 papers in all parts of the country requesting that they answer two questions, one to determine the editorial attitude toward the proposition and the other to discover the sentiment of the community represented. A total of 526 replies were received, and every State was represented.

The personal views of the editors were shown in the following vote: Affirmative, 391; negative, 97; undecided, 38. The sentiment of communities was reflected in this vote: Favorable, 237; negative, 156; and undecided, 133. As the Literary Digest points out, although the communities are in favor of "votes for women," the clear ayes are not in the majority.

Has Become a Big Issue.

"In recent years," the report says, "the subject was regarded indifferently, as the menace to the home and society by some, facetiously by others, and with most astonishing apathy on the part of the vast bulk of the population. However, since eleven of the great Western States have already granted women the franchise and as the question is to be voted on this fall by the vast majority of the original thirteen States of the Union—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts—it is beginning to arouse a degree of attention worthy of a serious political issue. The general apathy is giving place to a more lively interest, and it is gradually becoming apparent that the nation must soon choose one of two courses: either government that is comparable to the struggle for manhood suffrage. Woman, who yesterday was a political cipher, is today stepping up to occupy a place of equal rank with man."

"Apparently, the whole problem is removed into a psychic contest between the spirit of radicalism in the east and the spirit of conservatism in the west. Only in the South is another great issue involved—the latent fear of reviving the negro question."

Approved Where Tried.

Analyzing the poll, the Literary Digest says: "In the suffrage States, where women have already encountered all phases of political experience, a larger number of communities actually are reported in favor of its continuance than are the editors themselves. The exact figures being ninety-nine editors and 103 communities in favor, with only seven communities doubtful and six opposed, while there are twelve editors opposed and four doubtful."

"Out of 128 editors in the campaign States, eighty-eight are in favor, sixteen opposed and fourteen on the fence. The community interest is reported as falling off somewhat, though it is still very high in this group. The editors soon cast their ballot, the element of doubt is nevertheless strong, forty-six communities being reported as uncertain, sixty-two as doubtful and only twenty-one as opposed."

New England and South Slow.

"Conservatism is the rule in New England and in the South. A proportionately large number of editors favor it, however, the exact number being fourteen out of a total of twenty-three. Of the remainder five are opposed and four doubtful. Only three communities are reported in favor; but ten are doubtful. The remaining three are opposed."

Adopt Resolutions Favoring Countrywide Movement.

Resolutions favoring votes for women in all States, it was announced yesterday, have been passed by the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees. Part of resolutions reads:

"Whereas over 1,000,000 women have been granted the rights of full citizenship in the United States by attaining possession of the strongest weapon in the possession of workingmen and workingwomen, namely, the ballot;

"Resolved, That we go on record as heartily endorsing the woman suffrage bills now before the voters of New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and such other States that have voted to refer the matter to the people for their decision."

"TEACH GIRLS TO BE MANLY AND FIGHT," STARTLES ALUMNÆ MEETING AT VASSAR

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Many of the oldest graduates of Vassar College who are here for the semi-centennial celebration gasped to-day when an address at the Vassar commemorative exercises, Mrs. Emily James Putnam, associate in history at Barnard College, asserted that if she had her way all women would be reared to be manly and to carry firearms. Mrs. Putnam's speech caused much discussion and many of the graduates shook their heads. Mrs. Putnam's address was on "Women and Democracy."

"I would have girls reared to be manly," said Mrs. Putnam. "I would have them trained in dangerous sports where their safety of life and limb depended on their physical prowess, and I would have them taught to look out for themselves. I would have them discard their hampering clothing. I would have them learn the ordinary arts of self-defense. I would have them openly carry guns."

Mrs. Putnam reiterated her statement

MORRISTOWN SUFFS DEFY ACID THROWER

Will Hang Out New Banner
To-day, Replacing One Foes Destroyed.

POSTERS ARE TORN DOWN

The anti-suffrage "If you see a woman" posters were torn down by the suffragettes in Morristown, N. J., Oct. 12.—That's the way the suffragettes are paraphrasing James Whitcomb Riley in Morristown today. For the world things that are happening can only be attributed to malign spirits bitterly opposed to the franchise of women. The objects of their wrath are suffrage posters and banners, and they are practical spirits, dealing with acid guns and sulphuric acid when the banners can't be torn down.

It was with indignation they carried it to their headquarters, washed off the mud and flung it to the breeze from two friendly buildings a block further up the street. Next day the awning man who fastened it up called Mrs. Hopkins over the telephone.

"Your banner looks awfully queer," he said. "Guess I'd better lower it and wash it again."

Mrs. Hopkins and her assistants trooped over to see it done. But when the banner was lowered, behold, there it was. It crumbled into dust in their hands.

"Sulphuric acid," said the awning man, and gathering up the fragments he thrust them in a garbage can.

The Women's Political Union is still undaunted, and to-day will raise another banner, which is to be watched day and night by persons who claim to be friends of the cause. But the Morristown banner is not the only one ruined.

MARSHALS ARE SELECTED

The Empire State campaign committee is afraid that it will have to rent an Uncle Sam to march with Miss Columbia at the head of the National Woman Suffrage Association in the parade October 23. He must be a fine physical specimen, such as will do honor to the country, and represent the true far and wide suffragist.

The national section which Uncle Sam and Miss Columbia will lead is to contain a flying wedge composed of the States where women vote. Wyoming, which was first to enfranchise its women, will be the point of the wedge, and the other States will follow in the time order in which they freed women. Back of the wedge will be Alaska, all alone.

Forest Hills Gardens men saw the baseball nine of the town beaten to a finish yesterday by a nine composed of the wives, sisters and daughters of the players. The score was 8 to 4.

The suffragette nine—yes, they're all suffragettes—was composed of Mrs. Close, first base; Mrs. McCabe, pitcher; Miss McCabe, catcher; Mrs. Davenport, second base; Mrs. Bristol, shortstop; Miss Ryan, third base; Mrs. Earle, left field; Miss Kay, centre field; and Mrs. Ryan, right field. They have been practising baseball for a year. In the intervals of canvassing the town for suffrage, for as Mrs. McCabe said, winning the vote was all right, but until she could make a home run equal to her husband's she wouldn't feel on perfect equality with him.

Miss Covington Outlines Her $100,000 Suit Against Peace Forum Head.

Miss Luella Covington, who came from the West last Saturday to aid her attorney, Nathaniel F. Schmidt, to prepare the evidence in her $100,000 breach of promise suit against the Rev. Dr. John Wesley Hill, made what she said was her first authorized statement on the case at the office of her attorney, 220 Broadway, yesterday. She told the details of the alleged wooing by the president of the International Peace Forum and said that letters from Dr. Hill expressing affection for her would be introduced in evidence at the trial.

Miss Covington, who is an attractive, dark haired woman inclined to stoutness, with clear complexion not dependent on cosmetics, said that she is aiding her attorney now in preparing her case because as a business woman her time is valuable and she decided to take up the matter with her attorney now while she has a little time. She said she was not alarmed by statements intimating that her actions prior to filing the suit made her amenable to prosecution.

The feature of the Street Cleaning parade reviewed yesterday by Commissioner Fetherston and his staff from a grandstand in front of the First Field Artillery Armory, at Broadway and Sixty-eighth street, was the appearance of the twelve new ten ton motor tractors with which the department is going to keep the "Model District" clean. With each tractor are interchangeable trailers, a brush, a scoop, a sand spreader, several covered carts, and even a snow plough. These tractors have only been in use a few days, and will cover from Fourteenth street to Forty-second street, and from Sixth avenue to the Hudson.

This week we have placed on sale for the first time the

"C. E-Z" GAS LAMP

(See Easy)

which will revolutionize Home Lighting. This Lamp will fit any gas fixture. The "C. E-Z" Lamp will give you

FOUR HOURS OF LIGHT for ONE CENT

The Lamp is lighted by three mantles each about the size of a thumb. The mantles are made of Artifice and are practically indestructible. Another new feature—there is no inside chimney.

Beautifully diffused Light with No Glare and No Eye-strain

One of our representatives will call and ask your permission to attach one of the "C. E-Z" Lamps, and so demonstrate its wonderful light giving qualities. You are under no obligation to purchase the Lamp. Should you desire to keep it the price is $1.50 cash, or, pay our representative Fifty cents and Fifty cents next month and the following month when you pay your gas bill.

The antiquated "flat" or open-flame burner consumes twice the amount of gas, and only gives you one-third as much light as the "C. E-Z" Gas Lamp. Full particulars may be obtained by telephoning or writing to, or calling at any of the following Manhattan or Bronx Gas Offices:
